Publication of the Association for the Study of Persianate Societies. The journal publishes articles on the culture and civilization of the Persian-speaking societies and related areas in the Iranian civilizational area. It is based on the recognition that the production of knowledge is no mere reflection of pre-existing facts but can also play an indispensable role in shaping the present reality of the Persianate world when the violence done to its common historical memory and civilizational continuity by the divisive political and ideological forces of the eras of imperialism and the nation-states are somewhat allayed in the process of globalization.
